History of corner establishment since Original Government Survey

Duane Marten set an iron bar at this corner in August of 1971 using an existing B. T. pointed out to him by a D.N.R. ranger. D. Malliet used this point as the corner in his survey of December of 1977.

Description of corner evidence found:

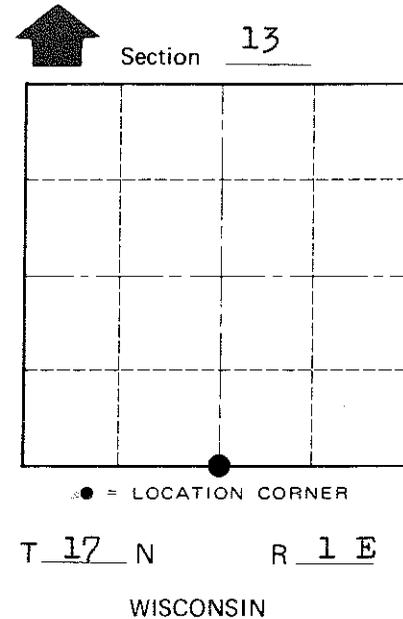

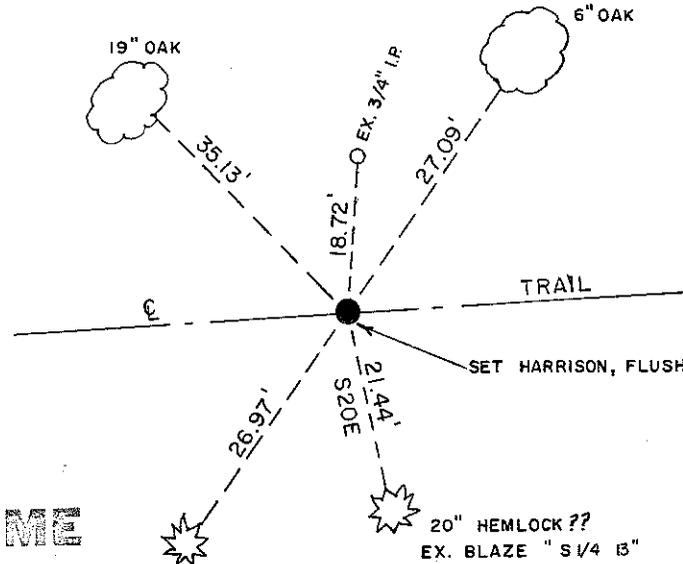

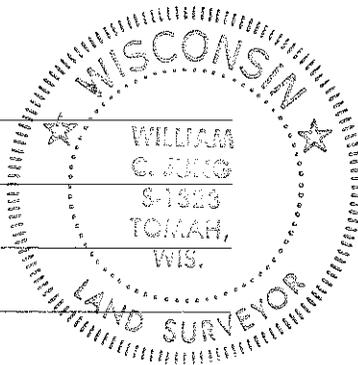

Found Marten's iron bar, removed it and replaced it with a Harrison marker. This point appears to be too far north, but I accepted it as it has been used in several previous surveys.

Description of corner and witness monuments, references and accessories used to perpetuate the original or re-established location of this corner:

Witnesses to corner location:

G. Dechant
